OPERATIONS

KINGS COLLEGE Building Services Technician (Fabric)

We are looking for a full-time Building Services Fabrication Technician to join the existing multi-skilled engineering team of maintenance trades staff and sub-contracted labour in their duties on the King's College London contract.

Reporting to the Building Engineer, you will be responsible for carrying out scheduled and reactive maintenance tasks to general building fabric and fixtures.

Duties also involve all aspects of building fabric work including: repairs to doors, windows, ironmongery, painting & decorating, carpeting and other fabric related tasks. Additionally, the role requires working within a multi-disciplined team and the accurate completion of any associated paperwork, as required by the Company.

The successful candidate will have a recognised core trade qualification and prior experience in building maintenance. Experience in bricklaying, plastering, welding and having lock-smith skills are all desirable.

You will also have excellent team working, communication and customer care skills.

The basic hours are 40 per week, Monday to Friday.

The post offers an attractive salary and benefits package, including paid annual leave and training relevant to the post.
